Alain Jarre joins SEMI European Advisory Board

Berlin, Germany / Brussels, Belgium — 15 February 2013 — Alain Jarre, Chairman and CEO of RECIF Technologies, has been appointed member of the SEMI European Advisory Board. RECIF Technologies designs, manufactures, distributes and maintains robotic handling equipment dedicated to the semiconductor industry.

“I am very pleased to have been asked to join the SEMI European Advisory Board,” stated Alain Jarre. “I see this appointment not only as a distinction, but also as a responsibility to be the voice of SMEs and to support the consolidation of the 450mm momentum in Europe.”

Alain joins the European Advisory Board at an important time in Europe, when key decisions are being taken on the European Union’s investment priorities for the next 7 years and on the framework policy conditions for promoting Key Enabling Technologies (including nano-electronics, photovoltaic and photonics).

“SEMI has been active in shaping a European regulatory environment that acknowledges the particularities of our industry and supports competitiveness,” commented Heinz Kundert, President of SEMI Europe. “We are pleased to welcome Alain Jarre to the SEMI European Advisory Board, where he can contribute his experience and help us promote the collective interests of our members for sustainable growth and profitability.”

Alain Jarre has 20 years’ experience in the high tech industry. Before joining RECIF Technologies in 2008, he was Deputy General Manager of the Mobile Product Line at Oberthur Card Systems and spent 10 years with STMicroelectronics, including 3 years in Japan.
